The opportunity to hear the first-person account of a Holocaust survivor is often a once in a lifetime experience. Join us on May 11, 2016, as Helen Fromowitz Weingarten shares her story.

Helen Fromowitz Weingarten was born in the small village of Oybochco, Romania. She was the seventh of nine children in a religiously observant Jewish family. By the age of sixteen, Helen had completed her education and moved to the nearby city of Sighet where she studied sewing for a year before returning home to her family to work in a weaving factory. Three years later, Hungary, an ally of Nazi Germany, invaded the region of Romania that included Oybochco. In the spring of 1944, life for Helen and her family changed dramatically when they were forced to leave their home and move into the ghetto of Slatina.
